In 1979, an 18 year old young lady became pregnant and was told by family members to have an abortion. She refused. Her child was born on Sept. 11, 1979. Today, her son Joe Basso is a husband, father of four, and Senior Pastor at Felch Mountain Bible Chapel in Felch, Michigan.

In 2013, Joe was asked to speak at a Right to Life picnic causing him to reflect on the issue of life. "When I was asked to speak in Dickinson County I was afraid. I have long believed that abortion is wrong but never put much effort into fighting for life. I felt inadequate and incapable. But as I prepared, my belief turned to firm conviction," Joe said.

Since that time he has moved off of the bench in the prolife movement and desires to see the ordinary do the extraordinary by encouraging the "Average Joes" to do what they can to enact change where they live.
